1. Write questions with could, can or would.

1. Could you give me the new password, please?
2. Can you shut the door, please?
3. Would you check my answers, please?
4. Could you recommend an external hard drive?
5. Can you enter the data for me, please?

2. Complete these conversations with should or shouldn't.

1. A: My computer isn't working.
B: You shouldn't buy a new computer. You should take it to a repair shop and see if they can fix it first.
2. A: I can't remember my password.
B: You should ask the administrator for help.
3. A: I gave my password to a friend.
B: You shouldn't give your password to another person. It's not secure and could put your information at risk.
4. A: What should I do? There's no internet connection.
B: You should call the network administrator to report the issue and ask for assistance.
5. A: My computer's crashed and I've lost all my work!
B: You should always back up your work regularly to prevent losing important data.
6. A: The battery overheated.
B: You shouldn't leave the laptop on charge all the time. You should unplug it once it's fully charged to avoid overheating.
